

FIGHT SHAM BATTLE

Middies Give Spirited Imitation of War on Land.

BOARD OF VISITORS PLEASSED

Third Day's Programme of Commencement Exercises at Naval Academy Opens with Crash and Booming of Guns—Festivities of June Week Close with Graduation.

Special to The Washington Herald.
Annapolis, Md., June 5.—The third day of June week at the Naval Academy opened this morning with real military crash and boom of guns when a battle of red powder took place within the government inclosure, in which the Second Battalion of midshipmen finally repulsed an attack by the members of the First Battalion and successfully defended its base from capture.

The sham battle, which opened at 9:30 o'clock, was witnessed by the board of visitors and a large crowd. Many were "wounded" and some "killed" in the engagement, which was made all the more realistic by the presence of a Red Cross corps, whose stewards and litter-bearers took the "wounded" to the hastily erected hospital tent for treatment.

Promenade in Lovers' Lane.

The only other practical side of the day's exercises was the engineering exhibition in the steam building at 3 o'clock this afternoon. To-night there was a dress parade, followed by a promenade concert under the shading trees of "Lovers' Lane."

The annual reunion of the Academy alumni took place in Bancroft Hall at 7 o'clock, prior to which was the regular mock formation for mess.

The board of visitors was in session during the morning after the sham battle, and had before it Capt. T. E. Howard, assistant to the commandant of midshipmen, and other heads of the various departments.

"Feeds" with Middies.
W. O. Jones, of Lincoln, Neb., chairman of the committee on mess arrangements and commissary, sprung a surprise on the commissary this morning by dropping in casually and taking breakfast with the officers in charge, while he was given the regular breakfast of the midshipmen. He reported so favorably on the mess that it is understood that several other members of the board have expressed a determination to go and get a "square meal."

To-morrow's functions will close the festivities of the week, and on Friday morning the work of embarking the members of the lower classes aboard the vessels of the practice cruises will begin. The ships will sail on Saturday morning for Hampton Roads.

IMPORTER PLEADS GUILTY.

John H. Seward Admits Defrauding Government at Baltimore.

Baltimore, Md., June 5.—By the advice of his counsel, Thomas H. Russell, John H. Seward, of Baltimore, admitted in court this afternoon that he had defrauded the government in Chambers of defrauding the government, and Judge Morris, of the United States District Court, suspended sentence until July 9, to permit Seward to arrange his affairs prior to going to prison.

Whitford, the United States weigher who was dismissed for alleged complicity, and against whom a charge is also pending, was expected to turn State's evidence. There are others who are said to be implicated in the frauds and against whom indictments were found, who, it was stated to-day, would follow suit and also plead guilty.

The charges against Seward were that he had defrauded the government by having his cargo of fruit weighed at night and with mixing in sawdust and water in the decayed fruit which, after being weighed, was deducted from the gross weight and an allowance then made for duty. The amount lost by the government in duties is estimated at $300,000. Civil suits against Seward & Co. to recover this amount, may also be instituted.

Dispute Over Polls.

It is said that the trouble followed a dispute as to where the polls for the coming Democratic primary should be located. After it had been decided to hold the voting at Richardson's store, against the protest of Fairfax, he left the party in a sudden humor. Fairfax went at once to his home, about a half-mile away, where he armed himself with a breech-loading shotgun. When he returned to the village, Fairfax pushed on back in the room to a point in front of Woodward, who was standing behind the counter. As the merchant looked around, Fairfax placed the weapon close to his breast and fired. The charge entered just above the heart, Woodward falling dead in his tracks.

Coroner James W. Taylor this morning summoned a coroner's jury and conducted an inquest over the remains of Woodward. The verdict was that he died by death by a gunshot wound inflicted by Fairfax. The members of the jury were F. R. Richardson, Marcus Richardson, Mr. Hensberger, Harvey Cross, Wilson Farr, and Rezin Farr.

Mr. Woodward was about forty-five years of age. He resided with his family, consisting of his wife and two children, at Farr Post-office. So far as is known, he had never had any trouble with Fairfax before the dispute over the voting place, which was so trivial that no one attached any importance to it at the time.

Accused's Mind Impaired.

It is said that Fairfax's mind has been impaired for some time, and it is believed by his friends that he was insane when he did the shooting. Before leaving his home on the eve of the tragedy, it is said, he declared that he intended to kill two people and then to take his own life. A few months ago, it is said, he made an effort to hang himself, but was discovered in the act by his wife, who thwarted his designs. In addition to his wife, he has a family of seven children. Some time ago he was given the contract for carrying the mail between Fairfax Court House and Farr Post-office, but it is said that most of the work was done by his wife. He is a son of E. S. Fairfax.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Capt. Pumphrey and the detectives believe that still more serious charges will be laid against Morano, that of burglarizing the Catholic Church of the Immaculate Conception, in New York City, on March 3 last, and shooting at, with intent to kill, two of the priests who discovered the burglars.

In a satel taken from Morano the detectives found a newspaper clipping telling of the attack of the burglars on the Church of the Immaculate Conception, in New York City, and how they exchanged shots with the two priests who surprised them at their work.

Marshall Farnham has written to the priests of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, asking them if they could identify any of their assailants, and has also communicated with the New York police authorities.

WASHINGTON HERALD BUREAU.

(Bell Telephone 113.)
Corner of Prince and Royal Streets.

Alexandria, Va., June 5.—Owing to the failure of the members of the committee on general laws to appear last evening, the joint meeting of this committee and the committee on finance to consider a resolution concerning the removal of the railway passenger stations from this city was postponed until June 20. The resolution to be discussed was introduced at the last meeting of the city council by President Snowden, and provides that an investigation be made as to the advisability of taking steps to have the city represented before the State corporation commission in a movement to compel the re-establishment of stations inside the corporation limits. It is declared by business men that the trade of the city has suffered much in consequence of the removal of the railway stations to a point in Fairfax County, at the head of King street.

COMING ATTRACTIONS.

The management of the Aborn Opera Company at the New National Theater, spring a surprise next week in the introduction of a real Japanese actress, Mme. Fujiko, in the role of Pitt-Sing, in "The Mikado." This little maid of the Orient is one of the few Japanese artists on the American stage, and probably the only one that has ever been seen in "The Mikado." She is possessed of a mezzo-soprano voice, cultivated in France and America, and this, in itself, is quite remarkable, for the number of Japanese who have sung successfully the music of the Caucasian race can almost be counted on the fingers of one hand. Another newcomer of note to the east next week, but one already well and favorably known in Washington, is Robert Lett, the comedian, remembered for his characterizations in "The Fortune Teller" and "The Singing Girl," who will appear in the leading comedy role of Ko-Ko in "The Mikado." Estelle Wentworth, Albert Parr, Edith Bradford, Phil Branson, Huntington May, and Karl Stail, will also be appropriately cast, and the same big singing chorus as usual will be heard in Sir Arthur Sullivan's delightful music. In revisiting this old Gilbert and Sullivan opera, the Aborn management are catering to the large class of music lovers who prefer compositions of the better sort, but who have little opportunity nowadays to see them capably presented. Such operas as "The Mikado" have been neglected in recent years, and a larger majority of the younger generation of theatergoers have never seen them, so the presentation of this opera, and others of its class to follow, will prove an attractive novelty to Washington. Messrs. Aborn promise an elaborate scenic and costume investiture for "The Mikado," with artistic effects, accomplishing a thoroughly Japanese atmosphere.
